

Dean Maki

Managing Director, Chief US Economist

Dean Maki is a Managing Director and Chief US Economist at Barclays.

Based in New York, he is responsible for analyzing and forecasting the US economy and monetary and fiscal policy. He was awarded the 2013 Lawrence R. Klein Award for Blue Chip Forecast Accuracy for being the most accurate overall forecaster of the US economy from 2009 to 2012, finishing ahead of approximately 50 of the nation's top economic forecasters. He was named by Bloomberg News the most accurate forecaster of US GDP in 2009 and of CPI and PPI inflation for 2008-2010.

Mr. Maki joined Barclays in February 2005 from JP Morgan Chase, where he was Vice President of Economic Research responsible for forecasts of Federal Reserve policy, the federal budget and Treasury debt issuance. Prior to this, he was a US economist at Putnam Investments and a Senior Economist at the Federal Reserve Board, where his research focused on the relationship between household balance sheets and consumer spending. His research has been published in a number of academic journals.

Mr. Maki holds a PhD in economics from Stanford University and a BA in economics from St. Olaf College.
