Miller-McCune’s Top Stories of 2011
Dec 31, 2011 ...Speaking of theories under fire, investigative science journalist Rex Dalton examined an elegant archaeological hypothesis about a comet crashing into Earth and wiping out the Clovis people.

Are Professors Picking the Public’s Pockets?
(Rex Dalton). August 25, 2011 • By Rex Dalton • High-flying professor Tatsuya Suda’s double-billing antics highlight the loose controls on the off-campus earnings of research university academics.

Quake Rescues Reserve, Shakes Baja Fishing Town
February 1, 2012 • By Rex Dalton • An earthquake has helped seal off a traditional fishing spot in Mexico, pleasing conservationists but hurting locals who depend on an annual fishing frenzy to sustain their economy.