From the Vice President

On March 24, more than 500 employees and supervisors gathered at the annual Staff Recognition Luncheon to recognize individuals who celebrated service milestones attained in 2010. Inside this publication, we are featuring the stories of eight staff members whose stories typify all of the honorees and their depth of commitment to Princeton, the breadth of experience they bring to their jobs, and the diversity of positions they hold.

This year’s luncheon marked the 20th one held. From the beginning, it has provided managers and senior leadership the opportunity to thank employees for their hard work and loyal dedication. Princeton, over the years, has implemented different ways to convey how much employees are valued for the role we play in supporting the University’s mission. These efforts not only help the University attract highly competent individuals but also enable us to recognize, retain, and motivate current employees.

This year, we were able to reinstate the annual Merit Increase Program, which had been suspended for two years due to the recession. We also were able to reintroduce the Special Performance Awards to reward individuals who contributed ideas and actions that had a significant and lasting impact on Princeton’s budget since 2009.

As an ongoing effort, the Office of Human Resources, along with colleagues in other departments, including the Office of Finance and Treasury and the Office of Information Technology, is endeavoring to create new learning and development programs to enable employees to grow and develop—something that builds value for both the individuals and for Princeton.

Conratulations to the five employees—Sharon Brown, Dale Grieb, Michael Karl, Josko Plazonic, and Joseph Winston—who were awarded the distinguished President’s Achievement Award. We also congratulate two individuals—Zia Bartley and Rebecca Graves-Bayazitoglu—who were selected as Griffin Management Award recipients.

Please join me in welcoming two new employees to the Office of Human Resources. They are Jaime Kinslow, employee relations specialist, and Amanda Weiss, benefits assistant. Both come to Princeton with invaluable work experience.

Lastly, have an enjoyable and safe summer! Please continue to send me your feedback!

Opportunities

The Children’s Educational Assistance Plan provides an annual tuition grant of one-half tuition and mandatory educational fees, up to a maximum of $13,840 for the 2011-12 academic year. For more detailed information about eligibility and how to apply for the grant, please visit our website or contact a member of the Benefits Team at 258-3302 or benefits@princeton.edu.

The Office of Human Resources will be providing a new attendance and time off tracking tool to enable staff members to calculate and track time off usage and balances for vacation accruals, sporadic absence time, compelling reason time, and optional holiday time. If you have a departmental tool that is effective, you can continue to use it in lieu of the new tool offered. Due to various departmental practices, several versions will be available soon on our website. Please contact a member of the Client Services Team for Employee and Labor Relations at 258-3304 or hr@princeton.edu if you need assistance.

Departments seeking to hire an individual in New Jersey for a specific service or project should be informed about when it’s appropriate to hire an independent contractor or an employee, i.e., short-term professional, casual hourly, or temporary worker. Following a few basic criteria will help you determine whether someone should be hired as an employee or as an independent contractor. Refer to the finance and treasury website for more information or contact your senior HR manager.

Policy Updates

All employees share responsibility for protecting the well-being of the community and for adhering to norms of behavior that make this a great place to work. The University’s Nondiscrimination/Anti-Harassment Policy has recently been updated. Several options are available to aid you in addressing issues or concerns. Please visit our website or contact a member of the Client Services Team at 258-3304 or hr@princeton.edu if you need assistance.

Over the past year, Human Resources has led a project to review several leave policies; revise them to be clear, simplified, and user-friendly; and be administered consistently and equitably. Over the coming months, the Client Services Team will meet with managers and staff to introduce the revised policies, which will also be posted on the HR website by early fall. Policies under review include vacation, sporadic absence, optional holidays, and compelling reason time. Changes will become effective July 1, 2012, and an absence tracking tool in PeopleSoft Self Service will be rolled out gradually to departments through the remainder of 2012. Anyone who has questions should contact their senior HR manager.

The University’s Policy 1.0.2 Fairness Review Process has been revised, effective May 16, 2011. It provides an appeal process for eligible employees who believe they have been subject to unfair discipline in the workplace. The updates to the policy include eligibility criteria for staff and revisions to the types of disciplinary actions that are eligible for fairness review. For more information, refer to Policy 1.0.2 Fairness Review Process, which will be posted within the next week on the HR website, or contact HR at 8-3300 or hr@princeton.edu.

Read about six employees who were featured in this year’s service recognition video. Each staff member describes a varied yet exciting career at Princeton.

For more than 45 years Paris Swain has been a cook for Dining Services, Department of Facilities, serving countless bowls of her famous “soups.” While working at Princeton, Paris has been able to send three of her children to college, thanks in part to the University’s Children’s Educational Assistance Plan. She stated, “I got the grant from the University and I was really happy because I was a single mom. I was working real hard trying to get them through, and they made it.”

Thomas Emmons, senior project manager for Design and Construction, Department of Facilities, has been at Princeton for more than 40 years. Tom has collaborated on many construction projects, ranging from one-room maintenance alterations to the renovation of the Lawrence Apartments. He enjoys working with all of the areas within facilities. He explained, “We work with all the different divisions of facilities…I am proud to be part of that team.”

Richard Volz, a painter in the Paint Shop, Department of Facilities, is part of three generations of the Volz family that have worked at Princeton. A 35-year employee, Richard followed in the footsteps of his father, a former coach, and has had the opportunity to see his daughter join the staff at Princeton. Richard enjoys working in the paint shop because he feels he can receive “instant gratification” from his work. He recalled, “I’ve seen a lot of schools and I haven’t seen any schools that...have a campus as nice as this campus is.”

Sheryl Robas has worked at Princeton for over 30 years. Currently the undergraduate/graduate coordinator for the Department of Geosciences, Sheryl enjoys getting to know and forming lasting relationships with students. Her office is full of postcards from former students. She commented, “It’s really fascinating to see them continue on their journey, and they’re letting me be a part of that journey with them.”

Stephen Verbit, football defensive coordinator for the Department of Athletics, fondly recounted the special relationships and friendships that he has developed with players, families, alumni, and other coaches over his 25 plus years. He said, “I had the opportunity to see my son play and graduate as part of the class of 2005. Having him here on a daily basis was an opportunity for our family to stay very closely together over those four years.”

Patricia Heslin began at Princeton more than 20 years ago. After working in the Residential Colleges, she is now the department manager for the Department of German. One of her most memorable experiences was when Chai Ling, one of the student leaders of the Tiananmen Square protests of 1989, came to visit Princeton. Patricia added, “It’s been such a wonderful 20 years. It is my second home, and I couldn’t imagine working any other place.”

Edwin Rodas, a janitor in Building Services, Department of Facilities, for the past 15 plus years, takes pride in his work and was excited when he learned he would be assigned to work in Nassau Hall. His day begins at 5 a.m. as he ensures that the building is in perfect condition to receive visitors. He explained, “It’s very nice for me to meet new people all the time in Nassau Hall. A lot of important people have come…it makes me so proud.”

Amada Sandoval has been at Princeton for over 10 years and is the director of the Women’s Center in the Office of the Dean of Undergraduate Students. She enjoys working with and mentoring students, and she is glad that she is integrated with the entire University community. She observed, “Princeton is a place that is on a trajectory of continuous improvement. Every year I’ve been at Princeton, I feel that the University has been a better place.”

Although the memories held and experiences had by each of these employees vary, their commonalities lie in their unwavering commitment and dedication to the University. To learn more of their stories, watch the service recognition video.

Congratulations to Lianne Sullivan-Crowley

We congratulate Lianne Sullivan-Crowley, vice president for human resources, on her recent three-year appointment to the Board of Directors of the College and University Professional Association for Human Resources (CUPA-HR). Lianne has been an active member of CUPA-HR for over 20 years and will begin serving her term this July 1.

CUPA-HR, the association of human resource professionals in higher education, was founded in 1946 and currently serves more than 1,700 member institutions. The association offers learning and professional development programs, higher education salary and benefits data, online resources, and the most up to date regulatory and legislative information to its over 12,000 members throughout the United States and abroad. Princeton’s Office of Human Resources has been a member for many years.
