American Chamber of Commerce
AmCham France was founded by eleven businessmen in Paris in June 1894, making it the oldest U.S. association overseas. It is currently the collective voice of Franco-American business interests in France and the United States. Through the Board of Directors and its Task Forces, it serves as both a forum and a representative body for U.S. and French companies and for professionals and associations with international interests. It assists U.S. companies wishing to invest or trade with France and French companies seeking similar opportunities in the U.S. Interns should have a strong interest in transatlantic relations and commercial affairs, very good writing and computer skills, and good French.

American School of Paris
The school is located in Saint-Cloud, a suburb west of Paris, accessible by the Metro line 10 (zone 3) and bus lines 460 and 467. Interns will most likely be working in the Middle School as ESL teachers in the morning and as Sports Counselors in the afternoon. In the summer of 2007 interns were paid €26.40 per hour as ESL teachers and an hourly rate of €17 as Counselors. There is a 20% tax on these figures. The dates of the camp are established by the School, but in 2007 they were from June 25 to July 20.

American Library in Paris
A private, non-profit organization founded in 1920 with a gift of 25,000 books and periodicals and $25,000, the American Library in Paris is supported mainly by private donations and membership fees. It is located at the rue du général Camou in the 7th district and is reachable by several bus routes and also by Metro at the stop Ecole Militaire.

Baccarat
Established in 1764 following the permission of Louis XV, Baccarat is one of the most prestigious manufacturers of crystal ware in the world. The firm makes tableware, glassware, artwork in crystal, and jewelry. It won its first Gold Medal at the World Fair of 1855 in Paris, and the firm has built an international reputation for the finest stemware. There will be two placements for Princeton interns at the shop in the Place de la Madeleine.

Beau Fixe
This is a public relations office located at the rue de Courcelles in the 17th district. It networks with other public relations agencies and provides services on publicity and advertising strategies to a large number or international corporations.
Bonjour Paris
An English language publication, Bonjour Paris is a comprehensive online guide to France and in particular to Paris, covering restaurants, hotels, and a wide range of cultural events, sights, museums, and venues. Very good writing skills are essential for this position.

Centre Médical de Forcilles
An important placement for any pre-med student, Centre Médical de Forcilles is a private hospital with a 400-patient capacity located outside Paris in the town of Férolles. It provides laboratory, radiology and other medical services and specializes in nutritional problems, mainly diabetes. This placement is a hands-on position where interns work side by side with doctors.

La Cité du Livre, Méjanes Library
This is the municipal library of Aix-en-Provence. Jean-Baptiste Marie de Piquet, marquis de Méjanes willed his personal library to the State of Provence in 1786, on the condition that the books would remain freely available to the public. Today, the Cité du Livre includes a square court (Cour Carrée), two galleries, an amphitheater, and a multimedia collection along with its print collection. The internship work will consist of organizing bibliographic material of Anglo-Saxon works from collections that have not yet been classified in the Millenium database (U.S. software). Computer science background and appreciation of art are essential.

Corporate Editions
A copyright, interpretation, and translation agency, Corporate Editions’ services include all European languages plus Arabic, Chinese, Russian, and Japanese. The office is located near Notre Dame. Interns must be capable of managing tight deadlines and possibly working on more than one project at a time.

Cosmedias International
Paris-based Cosmedias is a leading publisher of business information for the worldwide beauty industry. Its publications constitute the most comprehensive information system available to the beauty professional. Cosmedias’ global network of specialized journalists provides extensive coverage of the industry’s 35 major markets. In 2007, the Princeton intern worked for the editor-in-chief of the weekly international newsletter.

École des Hautes Études Commerciales (HEC)
Located at Jouy en Josas in the outskirts of Paris and accessible by Metro line 14 towards Bibliothèque François Mitterrand and subway line N, HEC was founded in 1881 by the French Chamber of Commerce. It is one of the main French Grandes Écoles and for the last three years it has been ranked as the top business school in Europe.
École Nationale des Ponts et Chaussées
ENPC was founded in 1747 and has since been the institution that trains the country’s foremost engineers. It is the oldest engineering school in France and one of the most prestigious Grandes Écoles. It is located in Champs-sur-Marne, a suburb of Paris. Princeton students have been accepted as interns for several years and they have worked on editing and translating scientific articles. There are potentially two placements for the summer of 2008.

Editions Gallimard
This is one of the most prestigious publishing houses in Europe. It was established in 1911 by Gaston Gallimard, encouraged by Andre Gide and Jean Shlumberger, as an extension of the NRF (Nouvelle Revue Française). Since 1930, the office is located at the rue Sebastien Bottin, in Saint Germain de Prés. Interns work side by side with some of the top people in the publishing business.

Editions Tallandier
This is a literary agency representing over 50 distinguished French publishing houses. In the U.S. Tallandier provides translating and promotional assistance of French books to American publishers. The agency was created in 1983 with the financial support of the French Ministry of Culture with the mission of making French books available to American readers.

Fondation Monet
Located in the small town of Giverny, an hour northwest of Paris near the border of Normandy, this is the house and gardens where the leader of French Impressionism lived from 1883 to 1926. The Foundation is responsible for the daily upkeep and funding of the house and the gardens. Interns must be interested not only in art but also in working in the gardens with local master gardeners. This internship provides free housing.

Historial de la Grande Guerre
This museum is dedicated to the First World War, with a focus on Germany, France, and Britain. It is symbolically located in the region where the Battle of the Somme took place and housed at the medieval Castle of Péronne. It is an extraordinary museum with works that link contemporary art with the tragedy of 1914. There are 50 etchings by Otto Dix on exhibit.

HSBC Paris
A position in the Legal and Tax Department is being finalized. The intern could be asked to get involved in the following: providing assistance to the law librarian, preparing translations from French to English, organizing English language courses for the lawyers and tax advisers, or certain clerical duties such as document production.
Musee d’Art et d’Histoire du Judaïsme
The Museum opened in 1998 in the Hôtel de Saint-Aignan, a 17th century mansion that was restored and made available by the French government for a museum of Jewish civilization. Some photographs of Eugène Atget show Jewish immigrant families from Poland and the Ukraine living there in the second half of the 19th century. Its collections focus on France, the history of the Jews, religious art, and works by Jewish artists. The museum has received objects and manuscripts from several other museums such as the Jewish Museum in Prague, the Musée Carnavalet, and the Musée National du Moyen Âge.

Musée d’Orsay
One of the greatest museums in Europe, the Musée d’Orsay was originally built for the International Fair of 1900 as the railway station (Gare d’Orsay) connecting Paris with Orleans. The station closed in 1973 and was reopened and refurbished as a Museum in 1983. It holds mainly French art, sculpture, furniture, photographs, and painting, including an amazing collection of Impressionist masterpieces. The Princeton in France internship position in 2007 was in the Documentation Center. The student worked on the creation of an internet database, preparing dossiers for entry into the system.

Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD)
This international organization has 30 members and was created in 1948 as the Organization for European Economic Cooperation, in support of the administration of the Marshall Plan for the reconstruction of Europe after the Second World War. It has a very wide mandate covering economic, environmental, and social issues. The position for Princeton in France is in the rights division of the publishing department, where the Organization publishes its findings every year in about 200 titles in English and French.

Paris Conservatoire
Since its foundation in 1795, the Conservatoire National Supérieur de Musique et de Danse de Paris has played an important role in the artistic development of France and of Western Europe. It is currently under the supervision of the Ministry of Culture and Communication and it is considered the largest and most prestigious conservatory in Europe. In their own definition, the Conservatory is: “an extraordinary centre for training and transmission where tradition, creation, reflection and research all play a vital role.” The two available placements for Princeton interns are at the Bizet Library, named after its most famous director, the composer Georges Bizet; and at the section in charge of all the concerts and performances. A clear interest in arts and music is essential.

Senate
This is a great opportunity for a student interested in international affairs. The placement was obtained for PIF by Senator Andre Maman, one of the great supporters of the Program. Interns must have a very good level of French since the duties may include helping with the organization of conferences, phone calls to high-level government officials, and taking notes at meetings.
Sémantis
This specialized translation agency provides services in 30 languages that they consider “the most commonly used in international business.” Interns work on a variety of documents usually from French into other languages, especially Spanish, German, and English. In spite of its large scope, Sémantis is a small agency run by a French couple with a dozen employees. The office is located at the rue des Mathurins, in the 8th district.

Steven Sklar Financial and Economic Translation
This agency, run by a Princeton alumnus, is a member of the National Society of Professional Translators, which has a membership of over a thousand translators and interpreters, a good number of whom are legal experts. A place for a Princeton intern with excellent French is available for the summer of 2008.

UNESCO-IOC.
The purpose of the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission is to promote international cooperation and to coordinate programs in research and services in order to increase the knowledge of the ocean and coastal areas. The internship position is in Paris, in the office of the Global Ocean Observing System. Student will work on outreach and promotional material including website content (not programming). Knowledge of earth sciences and an understanding environmental issues and policy are important qualifications. Excellent English writing skills are required.

Young and Rubicam
Y & R is one of the world’s largest advertising agencies and a leading marketing and communications agency. It specializes in brand identity and public relations and has 182 offices around the world. Interns will be at the office in Boulogne, in the 16th district at the end of the Metro line #10.