II. Eligibility and Funding Criteria

Grants issued by the Department of Politics, Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice, are available for internships in governmental or non-profit organizations geared towards peace and justice. Examples of internships the Bobst Center has supported include summer jobs with peace-related programs at the Center for Strategic and International Studies or the Woodrow Wilson International Center in Washington, D.C.; the Department of State; conflict resolution NGOs; and human rights organizations overseas.

Internships must be unpaid, full-time, and last at least eight weeks. The site of the internship may be in this country or abroad.

Funding is limited.

After the internship is completed the student and his/her supervisor are expected submit reports to the Department of Politics.

III. Application Materials

If you are applying for internship funding, please submit a one-page description of the internship, in your own words. The description should explain the agency for which you will work, define your expected duties, and demonstrate the relationship of the internship to public service. You should also submit your Princeton transcript along with your application.

After receiving notification of your grant, but before receiving the funding, you will also have to produce a letter of commitment from the sponsoring agency.

Submit ONE original and 3 photocopies of your application to: Gayle Brodsky, 132 Corwin Hall
