

Biography for Andrew K. Golden

Andrew K. Golden has served as President of the Princeton University Investment Company (“PRINCO”), the organization responsible for managing Princeton’s endowment, since January 1995. During that time, the assets of the endowment have grown from under $4 billion to over $12 billion, after net withdrawals of more than $2 billion to fund University operations.

The endowment is broadly diversified and invests in public and private equities, both U.S. and foreign; independent return funds; real assets; and fixed income. PRINCO’s net annualized investment return for the most recent ten fiscal years (ending June 30, 2009) was 9.7%, placing PRINCO among the highest performing endowments in the country. In 2006, Mr. Golden and PRINCO received Institutional Investor magazine’s Endowment of the Year Award for Excellence in Investment Management.

Mr. Golden joined PRINCO from Duke Management Company where he was an Investment Director. Prior to that time, he served as a Senior Associate in the Investments Office at Yale University.

Mr. Golden holds a B.A. from Duke University and an M.P.P.M. from the Yale School of Organization and Management. He has earned the Chartered Financial Analyst designation and is a member of the New York Society of Security Analysts.

Mr. Golden was a member of the Board of Directors of the NAB Asset Corporation, a publicly-traded commercial loan workout specialist. He currently serves on fund advisory boards for several private equity and venture capital managers, including Bain Capital, General Catalyst Partners, and Greylock Partners. Mr. Golden also serves as a member of the Investors’ Committee of the President’s Working Group on Financial Markets.

In addition to his work at PRINCO, Mr. Golden serves as a Trustee of The Nathan Cummings Foundation, the Princeton Area Community Foundation, and Rutgers Preparatory School. Mr. Golden and his wife, Carol Litowitz Golden, and their two sons reside in Princeton, NJ.
