CooA is a CO-sensing heme protein in the bacterium Rhodospirillum rubrum and it controls the genes which enable CO to be used as an energy source. CO binding to the heme changes the conformation of CooA so that it binds to DNA and initiates gene transcription.

Ibrahim et al. JBC in press