

Problem 38, Chemistry 301X - 2006

Draw the possible chair forms of cis- and trans-1-chloro-3-fluorocyclohexane. Are the two forms identical, enantiomeric, or diastereomeric? In each case indicate which chair form will be more stable and explain why. Is either of these molecules chiral?