

Support Princeton U. Low-Wage Workers

Despite Princeton University's $8+ billion endowment, the University administration refuses to pay janitors, dining hall workers, library assistants, and others a decent wage. These employees have to work two or three jobs to make ends meet. Join Princeton students, faculty, and staff to show the University administration that they have an obligation to treat all workers fairly.

Thursday 10/18
NOON -- Whig Hall

www.princeton.edu/~speac

For more information: Vincent Lloyd (609.986.7834) or Julia Salzman (609.986.7340)

The Workers' Rights Organizing Committee

