Guidelines for Candidates to the Council of the Princeton University Community (CPUC)

Individuals seeking to represent their staff groups on the CPUC are expected to submit to the Office of Human Resources, as part of the nomination process, a form that describes their experiences and accomplishments. Each candidate’s information will be posted on the election site to enable voters to make informed choices.

The CPUC election itself should not distract employees from their work or establish an unfair advantage for any one candidate over another. Therefore, candidates may not engage in organized communication with voters in any medium, including but not limited to emails, posting to LISTSERVs, posters, “door-to-door” campaigning, solicitation, or social media sites, nor may other individuals or organizations engage in these activities on behalf of candidates.

HR policies and procedures also establish a general framework and set standards that guide how individuals should conduct themselves as employees and members of the broader Princeton community. Staff members seeking a term on the CPUC should review the following HR policies:

5.1.1 Standards of Personal Conduct
5.2.1 Conflict of Interest
5.2.7 Solicitation and Distribution

Anyone with questions about the CPUC election process, these guidelines, or the specified policies should contact Jaclyn Immordino, jaclyni@princeton.edu, or Ann Halliday, halliday@princeton.edu.
