

Contents

Part 1: Summary, Findings, and Policy Options 1

Executive Summary 1

1 Globalization in Perspective 5

Finding 1: Multinationals Develop Core Technology at Home 6

Finding 2: Trade Follows Investment in the 1990s 13

Finding 3: Corporate Governance and Finance Diverge Across the Triad 19

2 U.S. Technology Policy in International Economic Perspective 23

The Policy Context 23

Policy Issues and Options 30

Part H: National Technology Innovation and Multinational Firms 45

Findings 46

3 The U.S. Technology Base in Comparative Perspective 49

National Innovation Systems: Structural Differences 50

National Innovation Systems: Performance Patterns 59

Conclusions 72

4 Multinationals and the Location of Innovation 75

The Location of Research and Development 76

Technology Trade 90

International Technical Alliances 96

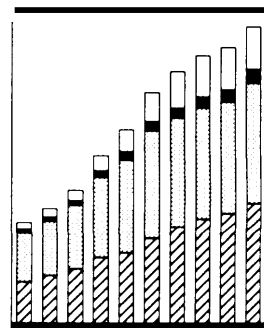

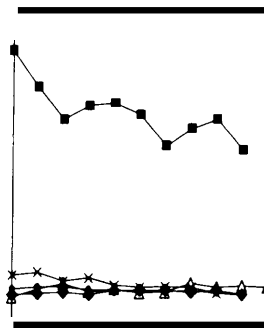

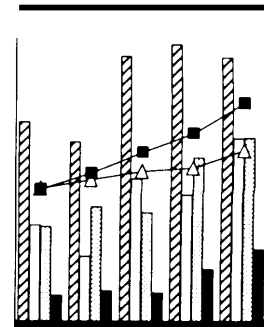

Conclusions 99

Part III: Trade and Investment in the Triad 101

Findings 102

5 Trends in Foreign Direct Investment 105

Global Trends in Inward and Outward Investment 106

Explaining Recent Shifts in Global FDI 112
Mergers and Acquisitions, Strategic Alliances, and Joint Ventures 115
The Dynamic Character of FDI in the United States 118
Investment Balances across the Triad 122

6 Multinational Firms and International Trade 129

The Trade and Investment Nexus 130
Forms of FDI-Contributions to the U.S. Technology
Base 150

Part IV: Corporate Foundations of National Technology Systems 155

Findings 156

7 Corporate Governance and National Technology Systems 159

Corporate Governance in the United States 160
Corporate Governance in Japan 163
Corporate Governance in Germany 169
Conclusions 173

8 Corporate Finance and National Technology Systems 179

Financial Market Structure in the United States 180
Financial Market Structure in Japan 183
Financial Market Structure in Germany 185
Conclusions 187

APPENDIXES

A Glossary 193

B Summary of the First Multinationals Report (September 1993) 196

C Competition Policy Across the Triad 199

D Data Note 203

Index 205